

Table of Contents

Prologue	XV
1 The Basics: Organizational Culture—A Concept that Is Not Always Well Understood	1
1.1 Introduction	1
1.2 Definitions of culture	3
1.2.1 National culture	3
1.2.2 Organizational culture	7
1.3 Perception of OC differences in a national context	10
1.4 Other determinant factors of organizational culture	13
1.5 Culture and identity	16
1.6 Culture and labor satisfaction	17
1.7 Culture and core values	23
1.8 Proper use of core values	30
1.9 Values and virtues	31
1.10 Individual reality versus group reality	32
1.11 Management principles versus culture	33
1.12 The most functional culture is not predetermined	36
1.12.1 Different objectives	36
1.12.2 Different strategies	37
1.12.3 Different environments	39
1.12.4 Different subcultures	40
1.12.5 Average assessments and benchmarking	41
1.13 Different manifestations of culture	42
1.13.1 Actual culture (measured)	42
1.13.2 Optimal culture (assessed)	42
1.13.3 Desired culture (measured)	43

1.13.4	Culture: “The way we think we are” (assessed)	43
1.14	Different layers of culture	44
1.15	The admonition: “Keep it simple” and the cobweb	44
1.15.1	Managers	45
1.15.2	The competition	46
2	How to Handle OC Successfully?	49
2.1	Complexity	50
	Conclusion	51
2.2	Subjectivity	52
	Realization that we are all subjective	52
	What are the consequences?	52
2.3	One model	54
2.4	Rigorous research	56
2.4.1	Culture and proper scientific research	56
2.4.2	Hofstede’s research on OC	57
2.4.3	More considerations	60
3	Content: A Description of the Model	63
3.1	Introduction	63
3.2	An overview of the Model	65
	What do we learn from the above?	66
	A first description of the Hofstede Model	67
3.3	A description of the Model	67
	D1: Means oriented versus goal oriented	68
	D2: Internally driven versus externally driven	69
	D3: Easygoing versus strict work discipline	69
	D4: Defensive versus professional	70
	D5: Open systems versus closed systems	71
	D6: Employee oriented versus output oriented	71
	D7: Low versus high degree of acceptance of leadership style	72
	D8: Low versus high degree of identification with the organization	73
	D9: Weak versus strong culture	73
3.4	Strategy, the normative question, and the Model revisited	75
3.5	Functional diversity	77
	An example of functional diversity	78
3.6	Typologies or, instead, combinations of dimensions	79
3.7	The beauty of the Model	80

3.7.1	Information contained in combining scores on two dimensions—in this case, combining dimensions D1 and D2	81
	How to read Diagram 1 (Figure 3.2)	81
	Information contained in this diagram	81
	Reflections about process versus result orientation	88
3.7.2	Information contained in combining scores on three dimensions—in this case, combining dimensions D1/D2 with dimension D3	89
3.7.3	Two subdimensions combined	94
	Information contained in this diagram	96
3.7.4	Reflection on the three diagrams	97
4	Scan Your Culture and Functional Diversity	101
4.1	When is it useful or not useful to measure your culture?	101
4.2	How to find out whether functional diversity exists	102
4.3	How to handle functional diversity	102
4.4	Number of respondents	103
4.5	Clients' attitudes	104
4.6	Subcultures or the price of functional diversity	105
5	The New Architecture	109
5.1	A fragmented supply side	109
1.	The complexity of groups of people	109
2.	As a consequence, proper scientific research in the field of culture is much more demanding	110
3.	Many providers have a strong need to distinguish themselves from the rest	110
4.	Many providers therefore don't share their know-how and experiences	110
5.2	Culture and proper scientific research	111
	Example of a nuclear power plant	113
	What did we learn from this?	114
5.3	Basic principles	115
5.4	An overview of the new architecture	116
6	Description of Your Road Map	119
	Phase 1, Step 1.1: Prepare Your road map	119
	How to identify separate subcultures?	120
	Phase 1, Step 1.2: Fill in three questionnaires	120

Your road map	120
What you have to do	121
Phase 1, Step 1.3: Choose objectives	121
Your road map	121
What you have to do	122
Phase 1, Step 1.4: Define degree of importance	122
Your road map	122
Phase 2, Step 2.1: Prepare measurement	124
Your road map	124
Welcome	124
Phase 2, Step 2.2: Make it known	126
Your road map	126
Phase 2, Step 2.3: Make it happen, i.e., have your actual culture scanned	127
Your road map	127
Phase 2, Step 2.4: Compare and make your choice	129
Your road map	129
Phase 3, Step 3.1: Prepare your change journey	131
Your road map	131
Our change philosophy, “Play your culture”	132
Phase 3, Step 3.2: Get change content or “Play, Jimmy, play”	134
Your road map	134
Phase 3, Step 3.3: Get change process; Play your Jimmies	135
Your road map	135
Overview of the Workshop	136
Phase 3, Step 3.4: Change successfully	138
Your road map	138
7 Change Management in a Changing World	141
7.1 Introduction	141
7.2 Making change happen should be enjoyable	141
7.3 What could be the causes of such low degrees of commitment?	144
7.4 Culture is a management tool	146
7.5 Auditors versus management consultants	146
7.6 Different change processes in different countries	147
7.7 Sense and non-sense of change management	149
7.8 Factors having an impact on change	150
7.9 Willingness to change	151
7.10 The “tell and sell” approach	152

7.11	Client should be owner	154
7.12	Integrated change process	154
7.13	Acknowledge minimum requirements	155
7.14	Acknowledge the emotional component	156
7.15	Logistics	156
7.16	Some more change considerations	157
	Keep momentum	157
	Use of the word “culture”	157
7.17	Need for outsiders, but ...	158
	Need for specialists	158
	Need for a data bank	158
	Avoidance of dependency	158
	Avoidance of emotional involvement	158
	Avoidance of socialization	159
8	Capita Selecta	161
8.1	National culture versus organizational culture	162
8.1.1	Different aspects of our reality	163
8.1.2	Evolution versus change	164
8.1.3	Nonnormative versus normative	165
8.1.4	One-way indirect causal relationship	166
8.1.5	One-way direct causal relationship	167
8.1.6	Applications	168
8.1.7	Conclusions	168
8.2	Automation and organizational culture	169
	Conclusion	171
8.3	Mergers and acquisitions	171
	Mergers versus acquisitions	176
	International mergers	177
	Conclusion	178
8.4	Remuneration seen from a cultural perspective	178
	Conclusion	183
8.5	Global companies	183
	Economic and financial success	183
	Management awareness	184
	Proper intercultural know-how	185
	Proper personalities	186
	Proper organizational culture	187
	Conclusion	187

8.6	The police force	187
	Conclusion	190
Annex 1 The Hofstede Model on National Cultures		191
1.	Introduction	191
2.	A description of the Model	192
	D1: Large versus Small Power Distance	192
	D2: Individualism versus Collectivism	193
	D3: Masculinity versus Femininity	193
	D4: Strong versus Weak Uncertainty Avoidance	194
	D5: Long-term pragmatic versus short-term normative	195
Annex 2 The Law of Big Numbers		203
	Exhibit 1	203
	Exhibit 2	204
	Exhibit 3	205
	Conclusion	206
Annex 3 Additional Data Collection		207
1.	Introduction	207
	Organizational culture: methods of analysis	207
	What do you want to know and why do you want to know it?	208
	Appropriate methods	211
	Various methods can be used to examine organizational culture	211
2.	Different ways to collect data	213
	1. Interaction with (prospective) clients	213
	2. Walking around	214
	3. Quantitative online data collection	214
	Discussion of report(s) based on structured data collection	216
3.	From qualitative to quantitative descriptions	217
4.	Follow-up	217
5.	Briefing on “Walking around”	218
	Introduction	218
	Data which be turned into info	219
	In general	220
6.	Briefing on “In-depth interviews”	221
	Introduction	221
	Freestanding in-depth interviews	221

	In-depth interviews as an add-on	223
7.	Briefing on “Group interviews”	224
	Introduction	224
	Metaplan	224
	Procedures	224
	Role of moderators	225
	Core questions	226
	Briefing	227
	Annex 4 Pitfalls: How to Assess the Competence of Potential Providers	229
	Introduction	229
	Questions you may want to ask a PP have nine potential pitfalls	232
	1. The tailored pitfall : Does the PP make use of a standardized questionnaire or does he/she propose a tailor-made questionnaire?	233
	2. The anti-model pitfall : Does the PP make use of a model in which the results of a scan are presented?	234
	3. The down-to-earth pitfall : Does the PP make use of a sophisticated model?	235
	4. The one-for-all pitfall : Does the PP make a distinction between subcultures?	241
	5. The guinea-pig pitfall : Does the PP have enough data, know-how, experience, and tools to support you well?	241
	6. The one-track approach : Is the PP a strong believer, rejecting all approaches but one?	244
	7. The integrity pitfall : Does the PP behave with integrity or is he/she only “talking the walk”?	245
	8. The international pitfall : Is the PP able to make a connection between organizational culture and national culture?	248
	9. The change pitfall : Are the PP’s change efforts based on a sound conceptual framework?	249

Annex 5 Scientific Article	253
Epilogue	255
1. Who the hell is Bob Waisfisz?	255
2. Cooperation with Geert Hofstede	256
3. Why are the results of Hofstede's research on OC so little known?	256
About the Author	259
References	261
Concise List of Literature	263