

Table of Contents

Introduction	pag. XIII
1 Economic Activity and Firms, by Paola Dubini	1
1.1 Economic activity	1
1.1.1 Choices	1
1.1.2 Needs	2
1.1.3 Goods	2
1.1.4 Exchange	4
1.1.5 The market	5
1.1.6 Economic processes	7
1.1.7 Factors of production	9
1.2 Individuals and decision-making processes	10
1.2.1 Social groups	11
1.3 The outcomes of economic activity: income, value and impact	14
1.4 Types of firms	15
1.4.1 Families	18
1.4.2 Enterprises	19
1.4.3 Public agencies	21
1.4.4 Non-profit organizations	25
1.5 Configuration of different activities for similar firms	27
1.5.1 Core operations	28
1.5.2 Risk management	28
1.5.3 Asset management	29
1.5.4 Financial management	29
1.5.5 Extraordinary operations	29
1.5.6 Tax management	30
1.6 Specialization	30
1.7 Relationships between firms	35
Review questions	36
Bibliography	37
2 Institutional Structure, by Paola Dubini	41
2.1 Actors and their interests	41
2.1.1 Contributions and rewards	41
2.1.2 Interests around a firm: characteristics and relations	44

2.2	The institutional structure of firms	47
2.2.1	Ownership	47
2.2.2	Governance and control	49
2.2.3	Institutional structures and relations with stakeholders	51
2.3	The governance structures in different types of firms	52
2.3.1	Families	52
2.3.2	Enterprises	53
2.3.3	Public Administration	55
2.3.4	Non-profit firms	57
2.4	Institutional borders across firms: interfirm aggregates	58
2.4.1	Borders and relations	58
2.4.2	Classification of aggregates of companies	61
2.4.3	Economic groups	61
2.4.4	Formal associations of companies	63
2.4.5	Informal associations of companies	65
2.4.6	The advantages of aggregates and the obstacles to their creation	65
2.5	Institutional structures and economic viability	66
	Review questions	71
	Bibliography	72
3	Firms in Arts and Culture, by Paola Dubini	75
3.1	A problem of definition	75
3.2	Classification of firms operating in culture and the arts	77
3.2.1	Functions and macro-areas	77
3.2.2	Cultural goods and cultural industries, media, and live shows	80
3.2.3	Fields with broad and blurry boundaries	82
3.3	Culture and commerce: a dialectical relationship	84
3.4	A field that is difficult to quantify	87
3.5	The value created by heritage, arts and culture	90
3.5.1	Identity-related value	90
3.5.2	Educational value and the creation of social capital	92
3.5.3	Political value	92
3.5.4	A driver for local economic wealth	93
3.5.5	Enhancing the system of relationships	95
3.6	The importance of geography	96
3.7	Governance of heritage, arts, and culture	97
3.7.1	Public governance of culture	98
3.7.2	The role of the private sector	101
3.8	The viability of organizations in the arts and culture fields	103
	Review questions	109
	Bibliography	110

4	Benefits, Needs and Offer System, by Armando Cirrincione and Antonella Carù	115
4.1	Product and value for the customer	115
4.2	Product availability – exchange, sharing and gift	115
4.2.1	Exchange	115
4.2.2	Sharing	116
4.2.3	Gift	117
4.2.4	Exchange, sharing and gift: complementary nature and spheres of use	118
4.3	Needs and benefits	119
4.3.1	The macro-categories of benefits	120
4.4	The customer: a complex concept	124
4.4.1	Customers and business models	127
4.5	The offer system and its components	130
4.5.1	The target and the expected benefits	133
4.5.2	The positioning of the offer and communication	137
4.5.3	The product	138
4.5.4	Methods of distribution and use of products	145
4.5.5	Distribution	146
4.5.6	Price	149
4.5.7	The offer system – conclusions	150
4.6	The consumption of artistic and cultural products	150
4.6.1	The relationship between free time and use of artistic and cultural products	151
4.6.2	The specific nature of consumption of artistic and cultural products	152
4.6.3	Creativity and accessibility of cultural products – definition of the offer	155
4.6.4	Management of services supporting access to contents	159
	Review questions	165
	Bibliography	166
5	Environmental Forces and Competitive Systems, by Armando Cirrincione	169
5.1	Organizations and complexity of the external environment	169
5.2	The forces that influence the evolution of the environment	173
5.2.1	Technological forces	174
5.2.2	Socio-cultural forces	174
5.2.3	Regulatory forces	176
5.2.4	Economic forces	176
5.2.5	Competitive forces	177
5.2.6	Seize opportunities, identify threats: the importance of monitoring the environment	177
5.3	The competitive system and the concept of sector	178

5.3.1	Intratype and intertype competition	178
5.3.2	The concept of sector	180
5.4	Intratype competition	182
5.4.1	Competitive pressure	182
5.4.2	Strategic groups	188
5.5	Intertype competition: the Porter model	189
5.6	Competitive advantage and generic competitive strategies	193
5.6.1	Efficiency	194
5.6.2	The control of key resources	195
5.6.3	The relationship with the client	199
5.6.4	The trade-off between efficiency and differentiation	199
5.7	SWOT analysis	202
	Review questions	204
	Bibliography	204
6	The Drivers of Financial Results, by Cinzia Parolini	207
6.1	Introduction	207
6.2	Cost-volume-profit analysis	210
6.2.1	The classification of costs and revenues	211
6.2.2	Cost-volume-profit analysis	216
6.2.3	Absorption of fixed costs	223
6.3	Extension choices and structural drivers of financial results	224
6.3.1	Economies of scale	226
6.3.2	Network externalities	231
6.3.3	Economies of scope	233
6.3.4	Learning economies	237
6.3.5	Transaction costs	242
6.4	Relationships and interdependence between economies and extension choices	250
	Review questions	253
	Bibliography	253
7	Organizational Design and People Management, by Fabrizio Montanari	257
7.1	Key issues in organizational choices, and the specific features of cultural institutions	257
7.2	Organizational structures	260
7.2.1	Elementary (or simple) structure	261
7.2.2	Functional structure	262
7.2.3	Multi-divisional structure	266
7.3	People management	269
7.3.1	Human resources management in cultural institutions	269
7.3.2	Recruiting and selection	270
7.3.3	Career	272

7.4	The role of the Executive Director	274
7.5	Managing relationships with the external environment	280
7.6	Managing cultural events	283
7.6.1	The life-cycle of cultural events	286
	Review questions	288
	Bibliography	289
8	Measures of Economic Viability , by Paola Dubini and Cinzia Parolini	293
8.1	From choices to results	293
8.2	The financial statements	293
8.2.1	Naming of the sections	296
8.2.2	Type of operations recorded	296
8.2.3	The moment of recording	297
8.2.4	The breakdown of values over time	297
8.3	The double entry method and accounting books	300
8.3.1	The accounts plan	302
8.3.2	The prime entry	302
8.3.3	The daybook	303
8.3.4	The general ledger	303
8.4	Building up the annual financial statements	303
8.5	The closing of the financial statements and the re-opening in the subsequent year	307
8.6	Analysis of the financial statements: the re-classification of the Income Statement	310
8.7	Analysis of the financial statements: the re-classification of the Balance Sheet	314
8.8	Analysis of financial statements: ratios	319
8.8.1	Liquidity ratios	319
8.8.2	Solvency ratios	320
8.8.3	Profitability ratios	321
	Review questions	325
	Bibliography	325